K-8 Social Studies Scope & Sequence 2014-15

The study of history, geography, economics, government and civics is the study of humanity, of people and events that have individually and collectively shaped our nation and the world. A strong and effective social studies program helps students make sense of the world in which they live, allows them to make connections between major ideas and their own lives, and it helps them see themselves as active members of a global community. While knowledge of content is very important, it is equally important to engage our students in historical thinking. Students engaged and challenged to think like historians, raise questions, think critically, consider many perspectives and gather evidence in support of their interpretations as they draw upon chronological thinking, historical comprehension, historical analysis and interpretation, historical research, and decision-making. These are the skills that will serve them well as participating citizens of a democracy.

The New York City K-8 Scope and Sequence is a comprehensive resource that integrates national standards, the New York State Social Studies Core Curriculum (content, concepts, key ideas, understandings and performance indicators), the Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) and the New York State K-8 Social Studies Framework. The following Framework elements are highlighted:

- Key Ideas, the central organizing feature for each grade, represent the essential and enduring content understandings that should be the focus of teaching and learning for each grade.
- Corresponding references to Conceptual Understandings (in the form of decimal notations).
- The six social studies practices of gathering, using and interpreting evidence, chronological reasoning and causation, comparison and contextualization, applying geographic reasoning, understanding economics and economic systems, and engaging in civic participation.

Each yearly course of study is organized around a suggested time frame for core content (units of study) guided by essential questions. Teachers can use the document to focus on planning coherent instruction that considers relevant skills, practices and knowledge objectives for deep historical understanding.

For students in grades K-8, the social studies content should be integrated with the relevant CCLS by utilizing the standards for reading informational text, writing informational text, speaking/listening and language standards and the standards for Literacy in History and Social Studies (grades 6-8).

Note to Teachers:

The volume of social studies content included in each year's course of study presents some challenges. Teachers are faced with large amounts of content to be "covered" and yet want to provide their students with opportunities for in-depth inquiry and exposure. This issue of "depth versus breadth" is not a new construct but it requires teachers to accept that not all content is created equal. It is also important to understand that it is not possible to "cover" everything as the amount of content covered rarely correlates to the amount of content that is learned.

The real question is how to address enough content and still make time for in-depth exploration of the most essential topics? How do we decide on which topics to linger over versus those topics that merit only familiarity? Which topics will provide students with opportunities to interact with the real complexities of historical inquiry and thinking? Which topics will support student development of necessary critical and analytical thinking skills? Which topics will help us focus attention on significant and essential issues and lead students to understand the "Big Ideas" behind history?

The dilemma of depth versus breadth is not easy to address. It is also not something that can be decided for us. It requires all teachers to make the best decisions given our knowledge of the content, assessments, instructional goals, and most importantly our understanding of student learning (students' needs, interest and readiness).

The Ten Unifying Themes

These ten unifying Social Studies themes represent different lenses that can be applied to the teaching and learning of the Key Ideas and Conceptual Understandings across all grades, K-12.

- 1 Individual Development and Cultural Identity
- Role of social, political, and cultural interactions in the development of identity
 - Personal identity as a function of an individual's culture, time, place, geography, interaction with groups, influences from institutions, and lived experiences

- 2 Development, Movement, and Interaction of Cultures
- Role of diversity within and among cultures
 - Aspects of culture such as belief systems, religious faith, or political ideals as influences on other parts of a culture such as its institutions or literature, music, and art
 - Cultural diffusion and change over time as facilitating different ideas and beliefs

- 3 Time, Continuity, and Change
- History as a formal study that applies research methods
 - Reading, reconstructing, and interpreting events
 - Analyzing causes and consequences of events and developments
 - Considering competing interpretations of events

- 4 Geography, Humans and the Environment
- Relationship between human populations and the physical world (people, places, and environments)
 - Impact of human activities on the environment
 - Interactions between regions, locations, places, people, and environments
 - Spatial patterns of place and location

- 5 Development and Transformation of Social Structures
- Role of social class, systems of stratification, social groups, and institutions
 - Role of gender, race, ethnicity, education, class, age, and religion in defining social structures within a culture
 - Social and political inequalities
 - Expansion and access of rights through concepts of justice and human rights

- 6 Power, Authority, and Governance
- Purposes, characteristics, and functions of various governance systems as they are practiced
 - Individual rights and responsibilities as protected and challenged within the context of majority rule
 - Fundamental principles and values of constitutional democracy
 - Origins, uses, and abuses of power
 - Conflict, diplomacy, and war

- 7 Civic Ideals and Practices
- Basic freedoms and rights and responsibilities of citizens in a democratic republic
 - Role of the citizen in the community and nation and as a member of the global community
 - Civic participation and engagement
 - Respect for diversity
 - Civic ideals and practices in countries other than our democratic republic
 - Struggle for rights, access to citizenship rights, and universal human rights

- 8 Creation, Expansion, and Interaction of Economic Systems
- Production, distribution, and consumption
 - Scarcity of resources and the challenges of meeting wants and needs
 - Supply/demand and the coordination of individual choices
 - Economic systems
 - Trade, interdependence, and globalization
 - Role of government in the economy
 - Personal finance

- 9 Science, Technology, and Innovation
- Scientific and intellectual theories, findings, discoveries, and philosophies
 - Applications of science and innovations in transportation, communication, military technology, navigation, agriculture, and industrialization
 - Relationship between science, technology, and innovation and social, cultural, and economic change

- 10 Global Connections and Exchange
- Past, current, and likely future global connections and interactions
 - Cultural diffusion; the spread of ideas, beliefs, technology, and goods
 - Role of technology
 - Benefits/consequences of global interdependence (social, political, economic)
 - Causes and patterns of migration
 - Tension between national interests and global priorities

Thinking & Process Skills

It should be the goal of the teacher to foster the development of Social Studies thinking and process skills. The application of these skills allows students to understand and investigate important issues in the world around them. Inquiry-based units of study will include many or most of the following skills. These skills should be incorporated into students' instruction as developmentally appropriate.

Thinking Skills <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ comparing and contrasting ■ identifying cause and effect ■ drawing inferences and making conclusions ■ evaluating ■ distinguishing fact vs. opinion ■ finding and solving multi-step problems ■ decision making ■ handling diversity of interpretations 	Sequencing and Chronology Skills <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ using the vocabulary of time and place ■ placing events in chronological order ■ sequencing events on a timeline ■ creating timelines ■ researching time and chronology ■ understanding concepts of time, continuity, and change ■ using sequence and order to plan tasks ■ setting priorities
Research and Writing Skills <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ getting information ■ organizing information ■ looking for patterns ■ interpreting information ■ applying information ■ synthesizing information ■ supporting a position 	Map and Globe Skills <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ reading maps, legends, symbols, and scales ■ using a compass rose, grids, time zones ■ comparing maps and making inferences ■ interpreting and analyzing different kinds of maps ■ using cartographic tools ■ creating maps
Interpersonal and Group Relation Skills <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ defining terms ■ identifying basic assumptions ■ identifying values conflicts ■ recognizing and avoiding stereotypes ■ participating in group planning and discussion ■ cooperating to accomplish goals ■ assuming responsibility to carry out tasks 	Graph and Image Analysis Skills <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ decoding images (graphs, cartoons, photos) ■ interpreting graphs and other images ■ drawing conclusions ■ making predictions

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Ask questions.
2. Recognize forms of evidence used to make meaning in social studies.
3. Identify the author or creator of a book or map.
4. Identify opinions expressed by others.
5. Create understanding of the past.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Retell an important life event in sequential order.
2. Understand the concept of time measurements including days and weeks.
3. Identify causes and effects using an example from his/her family life.
4. Identify change over time in his/her life.
5. Identify events of the past, present, and future in his/her life.
6. Identify routines and common occurrences in his/her life.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify similarities and differences between home and school.
2. Identify similarities and differences between him/her and others.
3. Describe an event in his/her life.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Ask geographic questions about where places are located and why they are located there using location terms and geographic representations such as maps, photographs, satellite images, and models.
2. Identify natural events or physical features such as land, water, air, and wind.
3. Describe how environment affects his/her activities.
4. Identify a pattern.
5. Identify a human activity that changed a place.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Identify examples of scarcity and choices made due to scarcity.
2. Identify examples of goods and services.
3. Identify what money is and how it is used in society.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a classroom or school issue or problem.
3. Identify the role of the individual in classroom participation.
4. Show respect in issues involving difference and conflict.
5. Identify situations in which social actions are required.
6. Identify the school principal and his/her role within the school.
7. Identify and follow rules in the classroom and school.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Develop questions about his/her family.
2. Recognize different forms of evidence used to make meaning in social studies (including sources such as art and photographs, artifacts, oral histories, maps, and graphs).
3. Identify the creator and/or author of different forms of evidence.
4. Identify opinions of others.
5. Create an understanding of the past by using primary and secondary sources.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Retell a real-life family event in sequential order.
2. Understand the concept of time measurements, including days, weeks, months, and years.
3. Identify causes and effects using examples from his/her family life.
4. Identify change over time in his/her family.
5. Identify events of the past, present, and future in his/her family life.
6. Recognize and identify patterns of continuity in his/her family.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify similarities and differences between neighborhoods.
2. Identify similarities and/or differences between him/her and others with detail.
3. Describe an event in his/her family.
4. Understand the concepts of geography, economics, and history that apply to his/her family.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Ask geographic questions about where places are located and why they are located there using geographic representations such as maps and models. Describe where places are in relation to each other.
2. Identify human activities and human-made features; identify natural events or physical features.
3. Describe how environment affects his/her and other people's activities.
4. Identify a pattern and a process.
5. Describe how human activities alter places.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Explain how scarcity affects choices made by families and communities and identify costs and benefits associated with these choices.
2. Distinguish between a consumer and a producer and their relationship to goods and services.
3. Explain how people earn money and other ways people receive money.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussions regardless of whether one agrees with the other viewpoint.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a classroom or school issue or problem.
3. Identify different political systems.
4. Identify the role of the individual in classroom and school participation.
5. Show respect in issues involving differences and conflict; participate in the resolution of differences and conflict.
6. Identify situations in which social actions are required.
7. Identify the president of the United States and the school principal and their leadership responsibilities.
8. Identify rights and responsibilities within the classroom and school.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Develop questions about the community.
2. Recognize different forms of evidence used to make meaning in social studies (including sources such as art and photographs, artifacts, oral histories, maps, and graphs).
3. Identify and explain creation and/or authorship, purpose, and format for evidence.
4. Identify arguments of others.
5. Recognize arguments and identify evidence.
6. Create an understanding of the past by using primary and secondary sources.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Retell a community event in sequential order.
2. Understand the concept of time measurements including minutes, hours, days, weeks, months, years.
3. Identify causes and effects using examples from his/her family life or from the community.
4. Identify change over time in his/her community.
5. Identify events of the past, present, and future in his/her community.
6. Recognize and identify patterns of continuity and change in his/her community.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify similarities and differences between communities.
2. Identify similarities and differences between his/her community and other communities.
3. Describe an event in his/her community.
4. Recognize the relationships between geography, economics, and history in his/her community.
5. Describe a historical development in his/her community with specific details including time and place.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Ask geographic questions about where places are located and why they are located there using geographic representations such as maps and models. Describe where places are in relation to each other and describe connections among places.
2. Distinguish human activities and human-made features from “environments” (natural events or physical features—land, air, and water—that are not directly made by humans).
3. Describe how his/her actions affect the environment of the community; describe how the environment of the community affects human activities.
4. Recognize a process that applies to population and a resulting pattern.
5. Describe how human activities alter places in a community.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Explain how scarcity necessitates decision making; identify the benefits and costs of decisions.
2. Describe the resources used to produce goods and provide services in the local community.
3. Describe the role of banks, saving, and borrowing in the economy.
4. Describe the goods and services that people in the local community produce and those that are produced in other communities.
5. Identify goods and services that government provides; explore the concept of taxes.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussions and classroom debates regardless of whether one agrees with the other viewpoint.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a classroom, school, or community issue or problem.
3. Identify different political systems.
4. Identify the role of the individual in classroom, school, and community participation.
5. Show respect in issues involving differences and conflict; participate in negotiating and compromising in the resolution of differences and conflict.
6. Identify situations in which social actions are required.
7. Identify the governor of New York, the president of the United States, and the school principal and their leadership responsibilities.
8. Identify rights and responsibilities within the classroom, school, and community.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Develop questions about a world community.
2. Recognize and use different forms of evidence used to make meaning in social studies (including sources such as art and photographs, artifacts, oral histories, maps, and graphs).
3. Identify and explain creation and/or authorship, purpose, and format for evidence; where appropriate, identify point of view.
4. Identify arguments of others.
5. Identify inferences.
6. Recognize arguments and identify evidence.
7. Create an understanding of the past by using primary and secondary sources.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Explain how three or more events are related to one another.
2. Employ mathematical skills to measure time in years and centuries.
3. Identify causes and effects using examples from his/her life or from a current event or history.
4. Distinguish between long-term and immediate causes and effects of an event from his/her life or current events or history.
5. Recognize continuity and change over periods of time.
6. Recognize periods of time such as decades and centuries.
7. Recognize and identify patterns of continuity and change in world communities.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify a world region by describing a characteristic that places within it have in common.
2. Identify multiple perspectives by comparing and contrasting people's point of view in differing world communities.
3. Describe a historical event in a world community.
4. Recognize the relationship among geography, economics, and history in world communities.
5. Describe a historical development in a world community with specific details including time and place.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Ask geographic questions about where places are located and why they are located there using geographic representations such as maps and models. Describe where places are in relation to each other and describe connections among places.
2. Distinguish human activities and human-made features from "environments" (natural events or physical features—land, air, and water—that are not directly made by humans).
3. Describe how human activities affect the environment of a world community; describe how the environment of a specific world community affects the human activities in that community.
4. Recognize a process that applies to population and a resulting pattern.
5. Describe how human activities alter places and regions.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Examine how scarcity affects the decisions about the use of resources by people and governments; examine the cost and benefits of economic decisions.
2. Identify the variety of resources available in a particular world community used to produce goods and/or provide services.
3. Identify the products found in world communities and the various ways people in those communities pay for products.
4. Examine the goods and services provided by world communities; describe what goods and services a world community trades with other world communities.
5. Explore the types of governments in world communities and services they provide to citizens.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussions and classroom debates regardless of whether one agrees with the other viewpoint.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a classroom, school, or community issue or problem.
3. Identify different political systems.
4. Identify the role of the individual in classroom, school, and community participation.
5. Show respect in issues involving differences and conflict; participate in negotiating and compromising in the resolution of differences and conflict.
6. Identify situations in which social actions are required.
7. Identify the governor of New York, the president of the United States, and the school principal and their leadership responsibilities.
8. Identify rights and responsibilities within the classroom, school, and community.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Develop questions about New York State, its history, geography, economics and government.
2. Recognize, use, and analyze different forms of evidence used to make meaning in social studies (including sources such as art and photographs, artifacts, oral histories, maps, and graphs).
3. Identify and explain creation and/or authorship, purpose, and format for evidence; where appropriate, identify point of view.
4. Identify arguments of others.
5. Identify inferences.
6. Recognize arguments and identify evidence.
7. Create an understanding of the past by using primary and secondary sources.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Explain how events are related chronologically to one another.
2. Employ mathematical skills to measure time in years and centuries. Understand the difference between B.C.E. and C.E. Identify the chronological significance of data presented in time lines with teacher support.
3. Identify the relationship between multiple causes and multiple effects using examples from his/her life or from a current event or history.
4. Distinguish between long-term and immediate causes and effects of a current event or an event in history.
5. Recognize dynamics of historical continuity and change over periods of time.
6. Use periods of time such as decades and centuries to put events into chronological order.
7. Recognize and identify patterns of continuity and change in New York.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify a region in New York State by describing a characteristic that places within it have in common, and then compare it to other regions.
2. Identify multiple perspectives from an historical event.
3. Describe and compare New York State historical events.
4. Recognize the relationship among geography, economics, and history in social studies.
5. Describe historical developments in New York State with specific detail including time and place.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Use location terms and geographic representations (maps and models) to describe where places are in relation to each other, to describe connections among places, and to evaluate the benefits of particular places for purposeful activities.
2. Distinguish human activities and human-made features from “environments” (natural events or physical features—land, air, and water — that are not directly made by humans).
3. Identify how environments affect human activities and how human activities affect physical environments.
4. Recognize relationships among patterns and processes.
5. Describe how human activities alter places and regions.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Explain how scarcity necessitates decision making; compare the costs and benefits of economic decisions.
2. Distinguish between the various types of resources (human capital, physical capital, and natural resources) required to produce goods and services.
3. Explain the role of money in making exchange easier; examine the role of corporations and labor unions in an economy.
4. Explain why individuals and businesses specialize and trade.
5. Explain the meaning of unemployment.
6. Explain the ways the government pays for the goods and services it provides, including tax revenue.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussions and classroom debates regardless of whether one agrees with the other viewpoint.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a classroom, school, community, state, or national issue or problem.
3. Identify different types of political systems used at various times in New York State history and, where appropriate, United States history.
4. Identify opportunities for and the role of the individual in social and political participation in the school, local, and/or state community.
5. Show respect in issues involving differences and conflict; participate in negotiating and compromising in the resolution of differences and conflict.
6. Identify situations in which social actions are required and suggest solutions.
7. Identify people in positions of power and how they can influence people's rights and freedom.
8. Identify rights and responsibilities as a citizen within your community and state.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Develop questions to help identify evidence about topics related to the historical events occurring in the Western Hemisphere that can be answered by gathering, using, and interpreting evidence.
2. Recognize and effectively select different forms of evidence used to make meaning in social studies (including primary and secondary sources such as art and photographs, artifacts, oral histories, maps, and graphs).
3. Identify evidence and explain content, authorship, purpose, and format; identify bias; explain the role of bias and potential audience with teacher support.
4. Identify arguments of others.
5. Identify implicit ideas to draw inference with support.
6. Recognize arguments on specific social studies topics and identify evidence supporting the argument.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Explain how events are related chronologically to one another in time.
2. Employ mathematical skills to measure time in years and centuries. Understand the difference between B.C.E. and C.E. Identify the chronological significance of data presented in time lines.
3. Identify causes and effects using examples from current events or grade-level content and historical events.
4. Identify and classify the relationship between multiple causes and multiple effects.
5. Distinguish between long-term and immediate causes and effects of an event from current events or history.
6. Recognize the dynamics of historical continuity and change over periods of time. Identify important turning points in history.
7. Use periods of time such as decades and centuries to organize a historical narrative; compare histories in different places in the Western Hemisphere utilizing timelines.
8. Recognize and identify patterns of continuity and change in history.
9. Understand the role of periodization as a practice in history and social studies.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify a region in the Western Hemisphere by describing a characteristic that places within it have in common, and then compare it to other regions. Understand how regions can be defined as sharing common characteristics in contrast with other regions.
2. Categorize divergent perspectives of an individual historical event.
3. Describe and compare events in the history of the Western Hemisphere in societies in similar chronological contexts and in various geographical contexts.
4. Identify how the relationship among geography, economics, and history helps to define a context for events in the study of the Western Hemisphere.
5. Describe historical developments in the history of the Western Hemisphere with specific references to circumstances of time and place and to connections to broader regional or global processes with teacher support.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Explain how scarcity necessitates decision making; employ examples from the Western Hemisphere to illustrate the role of scarcity historically and in current events.
2. Show examples of various types of resources (human capital, physical capital, and natural resources) required to provide goods and services.
3. Provide examples of how currency makes exchange easier by comparing a barter economy to a currency-based economy; examine why corporations and labor unions have a role in a market economy.
4. Examine the role of job specialization and trade historically and during contemporary times in the Western Hemisphere.
5. Explain the meaning of unemployment, inflation, income, and economic growth in the economy.
6. Describe government decisions that impact economies in case studies from the Western Hemisphere.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Use location terms and use geographic representations such as maps, photographs, satellite images, and models to describe where places in the Western Hemisphere are in relation to each other, to describe connections among places, and to evaluate the benefits of particular places for purposeful activities.

2. Distinguish human activities and human-made features from “environments” (natural events or physical features—land, air, and water—that are not directly made by humans) in the Western Hemisphere.
3. Identify and describe how environments affect human activities and how human activities affect physical environments through the study of cases in the Western Hemisphere.
4. Recognize and explain how characteristics (cultural, economic, and physical-environmental) of regions affect the history of societies in the Western Hemisphere.
5. Describe how human activities alter places and regions in the Western Hemisphere.
6. Recognize that boundaries and definitions of location are historically constructed.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussion and classroom debates regardless of whether one agrees with the other viewpoint. Consider alternate views in discussion with teacher support.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a localized issue or problem in a country other than the United States in the Western Hemisphere.

3. Identify different types of political systems and ideologies used at various times and in various locations in the Western Hemisphere and identify the role of individuals and key groups in those political and social systems.
4. Identify opportunities for and the role of the individual in social and political participation at various times and in various locations in the Western Hemisphere outside the United States.
5. Participate in negotiating and compromising in the resolution of differences and conflict.
6. Identify situations with a global focus in which social actions are required and suggest solutions.
7. Describe the roles of people in power in the Western Hemisphere both historically and currently. Identify ways that current figures can influence people's rights and freedom.
8. Identify rights and responsibilities of citizens within societies in the Western Hemisphere.
9. Develop an understanding of the interdependence of individuals and groups in communities in the Western Hemisphere.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Develop and frame questions about topics related to historical events occurring in the Eastern Hemisphere that can be answered by gathering, using, and interpreting evidence.
2. Identify, effectively select, and analyze different forms of evidence used to make meaning in social studies (including primary and secondary sources such as art and photographs, artifacts, oral histories, maps, and graphs).
3. Identify evidence and explain content, authorship, point of view, purpose, and format; identify bias; explain the role of bias and potential audience.
4. Describe the arguments of others.
5. Identify implicit ideas and draw inferences with support.
6. Recognize arguments on specific social studies topics and identify evidence to support the arguments. Examine arguments related to a specific social studies topic from multiple perspectives.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Identify ways that events are related chronologically to one another in time.
2. Employ mathematical skills to measure time by years, decades, centuries, and millennia; to calculate time from the fixed points of the calendar system (B.C.E. and

C.E.); and to interpret the data presented in time lines with teacher support.

3. Identify causes and effects from current events, grade-level content, and historical events.
4. Identify and classify the relationship between multiple causes and multiple effects.
5. Distinguish between long-term and immediate causes and effects of an event from current events or history.
6. Recognize and analyze the dynamics of historical continuity and change over periods of time. Identify the role of turning points as an important dynamic in historical change.
7. Compare histories in different places in the Eastern Hemisphere utilizing time lines. Identify ways that changing periodization affects the historical narrative.
8. Identify the relationships of patterns of continuity and change to larger historical processes and themes.
9. Understand that historians use periodization to categorize events. Describe general models of periodization in history.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify a region in the Eastern Hemisphere by describing a characteristic that places within it have in common, and then compare it to other regions.
2. Categorize and evaluate divergent perspectives on an individual historical event.
3. Describe and compare multiple events in the history of the Eastern Hemisphere in societies in similar chronological contexts and in various geographical contexts.
4. Identify how the relationship among geography, economics, and history helps to define a context for events in the study of the Eastern Hemisphere.
5. Describe historical developments in the history of the Eastern Hemisphere with specific references to circumstances of time and place and to connections to broader regional or global processes.
6. Understand the role that periodization and region play in developing the comparison of historical civilizations. Identify general characteristics that can be employed to conduct comparative analysis of case studies in the Eastern Hemisphere in the same historical period with teacher support.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Explain how scarcity necessitates decision making; employ examples from the Eastern Hemisphere to illustrate the role of scarcity historically and in current events; compare through historical examples the costs and benefits of economic decisions.
2. Examine the role that various types of resources (human capital, physical capital, and natural resources) have in providing goods and services.
3. Compare market economies to other economic systems in the Eastern Hemisphere.
4. Examine the role of job specialization and trade historically and during contemporary times in the Eastern Hemisphere.
5. Provide examples of unemployment, inflation, total production, income, and economic growth in economies in the Eastern Hemisphere.
6. Describe government decisions that impact economies in case studies from the Eastern Hemisphere.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Use location terms and geographic representations such as maps, photographs, satellite images, and models to describe where places in the Eastern Hemisphere are in relation to each other, to describe connections among places, and to evaluate the benefits of particular places for purposeful activities.

2. Distinguish human activities and human-made features from “environments” (natural events or physical features—land, air, and water—that are not directly made by humans) in the Eastern Hemisphere; identify the relationship between human activities and the environment.
3. Identify and describe how environments affect human activities and how human activities affect physical environments through the study of cases in the Eastern Hemisphere.
4. Recognize and explain how characteristics (cultural, economic, and physical-environmental) of regions affect the history of societies in the Eastern Hemisphere.
5. Describe how human activities alter places and regions in the Eastern Hemisphere.
6. Describe the spatial organization of place considering the historical, social, political, and economic implication of that organization. Recognize that boundaries and definitions of location are historically constructed.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussion and classroom debates regardless of whether one agrees with the other viewpoint. Consider alternate views in discussion.

2. Participate in activities that focus on a localized issue or problem in a country in the Eastern Hemisphere.
3. Identify and explore different types of political systems and ideologies used at various times and in various locations in the Eastern Hemisphere and identify the role of individuals and key groups in those political and social systems.
4. Identify and describe opportunities for and the role of the individual in social and political participation at various times and in various locations in the Eastern Hemisphere.
5. Participate in negotiating and compromising in the resolution of differences and conflict; introduce and examine the role of conflict resolution.
6. Identify situations with a global focus in which social actions are required and suggest solutions.
7. Describe the roles of people in power in the Eastern Hemisphere both historically and currently. Identify ways that current figures can influence people’s rights and freedom.
8. Identify rights and responsibilities of citizens within societies in the Eastern Hemisphere.
9. Develop an understanding of an interdependent global community by developing awareness and/or engaging in the political process as it relates to a global context.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Define and frame questions about the United States that can be answered by gathering, using, and interpreting evidence.
2. Identify, select, and evaluate evidence about events from diverse sources (including written documents, works of art, photographs, charts and graphs, artifacts, oral traditions, and other primary and secondary sources).
3. Analyze evidence in terms of historical context, content, authorship, point of view, purpose, and format; identify bias; explain the role of bias and audience in presenting arguments or evidence.
4. Describe and analyze arguments of others with supports.
5. Make inferences and draw general conclusions from evidence.
6. Recognize an argument and identify supporting evidence related to a specific social studies topic. Examine arguments related to a specific social studies topic from multiple perspectives. Recognize that the perspective of the argument's author shapes the selection of evidence used to support it.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Identify how events are related chronologically to one another in time and explain the ways in which earlier ideas and events may influence subsequent ideas and events.
2. Employ mathematical skills to measure time by years, decades, centuries, and millennia; to calculate time from the fixed points of the calendar system (B.C.E. and C.E.); and to interpret the data presented in time lines.
3. Identify causes and effects using examples from current events, grade-level content, and historical events.
4. Identify and analyze the relationship between multiple causes and effects.
5. Distinguish between long-term and immediate causes and effects of an event from current events or history.
6. Recognize, analyze, and evaluate dynamics of historical continuity and change over periods of time.
7. Recognize that changing the periodization affects the historical narrative.
8. Identify patterns of continuity and change as they relate to larger historical process and themes.
9. Identify models of historical periodization that historians use to categorize events.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify a region of colonial North America or the early United States by describing multiple characteristics common to places within it, and then identify other similar regions (inside or outside the continental United States) with similar characteristics.
2. Identify and categorize multiple perspectives on a given historical experience.
3. Describe, compare, and evaluate multiple historical developments within the United States in various chronological and geographical contexts.
4. Identify how the relationship among geography, economics, and history helps to define a context for events in the study of the United States.
5. Connect historical developments to specific circumstances of time and place and to broader regional, national, or global processes.
6. Understand the role that periodization and region play in developing the comparison of colonial settlements in North America. Identify general characteristics that can be employed to conduct comparative analysis of case studies in the early history of the United States.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Explain how economic decisions affect the well-being of individuals, businesses, and society; evaluate alternative approaches or solutions to economic issues in terms of benefits and costs for different groups of people.

2. Identify examples of buyers and sellers in product, labor, and financial markets.
3. Describe the role that competition has in the determination of prices and wages; identify other factors that help to determine prices.
4. Examine the role of institutions such as joint stock companies, banks, and the government in the development of the United States economy before the Civil War.
5. Examine data on the state of employment, unemployment, inflation, total production, income, and economic growth in the economy.
6. Explain how government policies affected the economies in colonial and early United States history.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Use location terms and geographic representations such as maps, photographs, satellite images, and models to describe where places in early United States history were in relation to each other, to describe connections among places, and to evaluate effectively the benefits of particular places for purposeful activities.
2. Distinguish human activities and human-made features from “environments” (natural events or physical features—land, air, and water—that are not directly made by humans) and describe the relationship between human activities and the environment.

3. Identify and analyze how environments affect human activities and how human activities affect physical environments in the United States.
4. Recognize and analyze how characteristics (cultural, economic, and physical-environmental) of regions affect the history of the United States.
5. Characterize and analyze changing interconnections among places and regions.
6. Describe the spatial organization of place considering the historical, social, political, and economic implication of that organization. Describe how boundaries and definition of location are historically constructed.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussions and classroom; respectfully disagree with other viewpoints. Use techniques and strategies to be an active and engaged member of class discussions of fellow classmates' views and statements with teacher support.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a classroom, school, community, state, or national issue or problem.
3. Identify and explain different types of political systems and ideologies used at various times in colonial history and the early history of the United States and explain the role of individuals and key groups in those political and social systems.
4. Identify, describe, and compare the role of the individual in social and political participation in, and as an agent of, historical change at various times and in various locations in colonial North America and in the early history of the United States.
5. Participate in negotiating and compromising in the resolution of differences and conflict; introduce and examine the role of conflict resolution.
6. Identify situations in which social actions are required and determine an appropriate course of action.
7. Identify how people in power have acted to extend the concept of freedom, the practice of social justice, and the protection of human rights in United States history.
8. Identify how social and political responsibilities developed in American society.
9. Develop the connections of an interdependent community by engaging in the political process as it relates to a local context.

Social Studies Practices

A. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence

1. Define and frame questions about the United States and answer them by gathering, using, and interpreting evidence.
2. Identify, describe, and evaluate evidence about events from diverse sources (including written documents, works of art, photographs, charts and graphs, artifacts, oral traditions, and other primary and secondary sources).
3. Analyze evidence in terms of historical and/or social context, content, authorship, point of view, purpose, and format; identify bias; explain the role of bias, context and audience in presenting arguments or evidence.
4. Describe and analyze arguments of others considering historical context.
5. Make inferences and draw conclusions from evidence.
6. Recognize an argument and identify evidence that supports the argument; examine arguments related to a specific social studies topic from multiple perspectives; deconstruct arguments, recognizing the perspective of the argument and identifying evidence used to support that perspective.

B. Chronological Reasoning and Causation

1. Articulate how events are related chronologically to one another in time and explain the ways in which earlier ideas and events may influence subsequent ideas and events.
2. Employ mathematical skills to measure time by years, decades, centuries, and millennia; to calculate time from the fixed points of the calendar system (B.C. or B.C.E. and A.D. or C.E.); and to interpret the data presented in time lines.
3. Identify causes and effects using examples from current events, grade-level content, and historical events.
4. Identify, analyze, and evaluate the relationship between multiple causes and effects.
5. Distinguish between long-term and immediate causes and effects of an event from current events or history.
6. Recognize, analyze, and evaluate dynamics of historical continuity and change over periods of time.
7. Recognize that changing the periodization affects the historical narrative.
8. Relate patterns of continuity and change to larger historical processes and themes.
9. Identify and describe models of historical periodization that historians use to categorize events.

C. Comparison and Contextualization

1. Identify a region of the United States by describing multiple characteristics common to places within it, and then identify other similar regions inside the United States.
2. Identify and compare multiple perspectives on a given historical experience.
3. Describe, compare, and evaluate multiple historical developments (within societies; across and between societies; in various chronological and geographical contexts).
4. Describe the relationship between geography, economics, and history as a context for events and movements in the United States.
5. Connect historical developments to specific circumstances of time and place and to broader regional, national, or global processes.
6. Analyze case studies in United States history in a comparative framework attending to the role of chronology and sequence, as well as categories of comparison or socio-political components.

D. Geographic Reasoning

1. Explain how economic decisions affect the well-being of individuals, businesses, and society; evaluate alternative approaches or solutions to economic issues in terms of benefits and costs for different groups of people.

2. Explain the roles of buyers and sellers in product, labor, and financial markets.
3. Describe the role of competition in the determination of prices and wages in a market economy.
4. Examine the roles of institutions such as corporations, non-profit organizations, and labor unions in a market economy in the United States.
5. Use appropriate data to evaluate the state of employment, unemployment, inflation, total production, income, and economic growth in the economy.
6. Explain how government policies affect the economy.

E. Economics and Economic Systems

1. Use location terms and geographic representations such as maps, photographs, satellite images, and models to describe where places are in relation to each other and connections among places; evaluate the benefits of particular places for purposeful activities.
2. Distinguish human activities and human-made features from “environments” (natural events or physical features—land, air, and water—that are not directly made by humans) and describe the relationship between human activities and the environment.

3. Identify and analyze how environments affect human activities and how human activities affect physical environments in the United States.
4. Recognize and analyze how characteristics (cultural, economic, and physical-environmental) of regions affect the history of the United States.
5. Characterize and analyze changing interconnections among places and regions.
6. Describe the spatial organization of place considering the historical, social, political, and economic implication of that organization. Identify and describe examples of how boundaries and definition of location are historically constructed.

F. Civic Participation

1. Demonstrate respect for the rights of others in discussions and classroom; respectfully disagree with other viewpoints. Use techniques and strategies to be an active and engaged member of class discussions of fellow classmates’ views and statements.
2. Participate in activities that focus on a classroom, school, community, state, or national issue or problem.
3. Identify and explain different types of political systems and ideologies used at various times in United States history and explain the role of individuals and key groups in those political and social systems.
4. Identify, describe, and contrast the role of the individual in opportunities for social and political participation as an agent of historical change in different societies and communities, as well as at different times in the United States.
5. Participate in persuading, negotiating, and compromising in the resolution of conflicts and differences; introduce and examine the elements of debate.
6. Identify situations in which social actions are required and determine an appropriate course of action.
7. Work to influence those in positions of power to strive for extensions of freedom, social justice, and human rights.
8. Fulfill social and political responsibilities associated with citizenship in a democratic society.
9. Develop the connections of an interdependent global community by engaging in the political process as it relates to a global context.

New York State Social Studies Elementary Standards

STANDARD 1: HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES AND NEW YORK

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in the history of the United States and New York.

Key Idea 1.1:

The study of New York State and United States history requires an analysis of the development of American culture, its diversity and multicultural context, and the ways people are unified by many values, practices, and traditions.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Know the roots of American culture, its development from many different traditions, and the ways many people from a variety of groups and backgrounds played a role in creating it
- Understand the basic ideals of American democracy as explained in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution and other important documents
- Explain those values, practices, and traditions that unite all Americans

Key Idea 1.2:

Important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions from New York State and United States history illustrate the connections and interactions of people and events across time and from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Gather and organize information about the traditions transmitted by various groups living in their neighborhood and community
- Recognize how traditions and practices were passed from one generation to the next
- Distinguish between near and distant past and interpret simple timelines

Key Idea 1.3:

The study about the major social, political, economic, cultural, and religious developments in New York State and United States history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Gather and organize information about the important accomplishments of individuals and groups, including Native American Indians, living in their neighborhoods and communities
- Classify information by type of activity: social, political, economic, technological, scientific, cultural, or religious
- Identify individuals who have helped to strengthen democracy in the United States and throughout the world

Key Idea 1.4:

The skills of historical analysis include the ability to: explain the significance of historical evidence, weigh the importance, reliability, and validity of evidence, understand the concept of multiple causation, and understand the importance of changing and competing interpretations of different historical developments.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Consider different interpretations of key events and/or issues in history and understand the differences in these accounts
- Explore different experiences, beliefs, motives, and traditions of people living in their neighborhoods, communities, and state
- View historic events through the eyes of those who were there, as shown in their art, writings, music, and art

STANDARD 2: WORLD HISTORY

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in world history and examine the broad sweep of history from a variety of perspectives.

Key Idea 2.1:

The study of world history requires an understanding of world cultures and civilizations, including an analysis of important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions. This study also examines the human condition and the connections and interactions of people across time and space and the ways different people view the same event or issue from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Read historical narratives, myths, legends, biographies, and autobiographies to learn about how historical figures lived, their motivations, hopes, fears, strengths, and weaknesses
- Explore narrative accounts of important events from world history to learn about different accounts of the past to begin to understand how interpretations and perspectives develop
- Study about different world cultures and civilizations focusing on their accomplishments, contributions, values, beliefs, and traditions

Key Idea 2.2:

Establishing timeframes, exploring different periodizations, examining themes across time and within cultures, and focusing on important turning points in world history help organize the study of world cultures and civilizations.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Distinguish between past, present, and future time periods
- Develop timelines that display important events and eras from world history
- Measure and understand the meaning of calendar time in terms of years, decades, centuries, and millennia, using B.C.E. and C.E. as reference points
- Compare important events and accomplishments from different time periods in world history

Key Idea 2.3:

The study of the major social, political, cultural, and religious developments in world history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Understand the roles and contributions of individuals and groups to social, political, economic, cultural, scientific, technological, and religious practices and activities
- Gather and present information about important developments from world history
- Understand how the terms social, political, economic, and cultural can be used to describe human activities or practices

Key Idea 2.4:

The skills of historical analysis include the ability to investigate differing and competing interpretations of the theories of history, hypothesize about why interpretations change over time, explain the importance of historical evidence, and understand the concepts of change and continuity over time.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Consider different interpretations of key events and developments in world history and understand the differences in these accounts
- Explore the lifestyles, beliefs, traditions, rules and laws, and social/cultural needs and wants of people during different periods in history and in different parts of the world
- View historic events through the eyes of those who were there, as shown in their art, writings, music, and artifacts

STANDARD 3: GEOGRAPHY

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the geography of the interdependent world in which we live — local, national, and global — including the distribution of people, places, and environments over the Earth’s surface.

Key Idea 3.1:

Geography can be divided into six essential elements which can be used to analyze important historic, geographic, economic, and environmental questions and issues. These six elements include: the world in spatial terms, places and regions, physical settings (including natural resources), human systems, environment and society, and the use of geography).

Student Performance Indicators:

- Study about how people live, work, and utilize natural resources
- Draw maps and diagrams that serve as representations of places, physical features, and objects
- Locate places within the local community, state and nation; locate the Earth’s continents in relation to each other and to principle parallels and meridians
- Identify and compare the physical, human, and cultural characteristics of different regions and people
- Investigate how people depend on and modify the physical environment

Key Idea 3.2:

Geography requires the development and application of the skills of asking and answering geography questions, analyzing theories of geography, and acquiring and organizing geographic information.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Ask geographic questions about where places are located; why they are located where they are; what is important about their locations; and how their locations are related to the location of other people and places
- Gather and organize geographic information from a variety of sources and display it in a number of ways
- Analyze geographic information by making relationships, interpreting trends and relationships, and analyzing geographic data

STANDARD 4: ECONOMICS

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of how the United States and other societies develop economic systems and associated institutions to allocate scarce resources, how major decision-making units function in the U.S. and other national economies, and how an economy solves the scarcity problem through market and non-market mechanisms.

Key Idea 4.1:

The study of economics requires an understanding of major economic concepts and systems, the principles of economic decision making, and the interdependence of economies and economic systems throughout the world.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Know some ways individuals and groups attempt to satisfy their basic needs and wants by utilizing scarce resources
- Explain how people's wants exceed their limited resources and that this condition defines scarcity
- Know that scarcity requires individuals to make choices and that these choices involve costs
- Study how the availability and distribution of resources is important to a nation's economic growth
- Understand how societies organize their economies to answer fundamental economic questions: What goods and services shall be produced and in what quantities? How shall goods and services be produced?
- Investigate how production, distribution, exchange, and consumption of goods and services are economic decisions with which all societies and nations must deal

Key Idea 4.2:

Economics requires the development and application of the skills needed to make informed and well-reasoned economic decisions in daily and national life.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Locate economic information, using card catalogues, computer databases, indices, and library guides
- Collect economic information from textbooks, standard references, newspapers, periodicals, and other primary and secondary sources
- Make hypotheses about economic issues and problems, testing, refining, and eliminating hypotheses and developing new ones when necessary
- Present economic information by developing charts tables diagrams, and simple graphs

STANDARD 5: CIVICS, CITIZENSHIP, AND GOVERNMENT

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the necessity for establishing governments, the governmental system of the United States and other nations, the United States Constitution, the basic civic values of American constitutional democracy, and the roles, rights, and responsibilities of citizenship, including avenues of participation.

Key Idea 5.1:

The study of civics, citizenship, and government involves learning about political systems; the purposes of government and civic life; and the differing assumptions held by people across time and place regarding power, authority, governance, and law.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Know the meaning of key terms and concepts related to government, including democracy, power, citizenship, nation-state, and justice
- Explain the probable consequences of the absence of government and rules
- Describe the basic purposes of government and the importance of civic life
- Understand that social and political systems are based upon people's beliefs
- Discuss how and why the world is divided into nations and what kinds of governments other nations have

Key Idea 5.2:

The state and federal governments established by the Constitutions of the United States and the State of New York embody basic civic values (such as justice, honesty, self-discipline, due process, equality, majority rule with respect for minority rights, and respect for self, others, and property), principles, and practices and establish a system of shared and limited government.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Explain how the Constitutions of New York State and the United States and the Bill of Rights are the basis for democratic values in the United States
- Understand the basic civic values that are the foundation of American constitutional democracy
- Know what the United States Constitution is and why it is important
- Understand that the United States Constitution and the Constitution of the State of New York are written plans for organizing the functions of government
- Understand the structure of New York State and local governments, including executive, legislative, and judicial branches
- Identify their legislative and executive representatives at the local, state, and national governments

Key Idea 5.3:

Central to civics and citizenship is an understanding of the roles of the citizen within American constitutional democracy and the scope of a citizen's rights and responsibilities.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Understand that citizenship includes an awareness of the holidays, celebrations, and symbols of our nation
- Examine what it means to be a good citizen in the classroom, school, home, and community
- Identify and describe the rules and responsibilities students have at home, in the classroom, and at school
- Examine the basic principles of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitutions of the United States and New York State
- Understand that effective, informed citizenship is a duty of each citizen, demonstrated by jury service, voting, and community service
- Identify basic rights that students have and those that they will acquire as they age

Key Idea 5.4:

The study of civics and citizenship requires the ability to probe ideas and assumptions, ask and answer analytical questions, take a skeptical attitude toward questionable arguments, evaluate evidence, formulate rational conclusions, and develop and refine participatory skills.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Show a willingness to consider other points of view before drawing conclusions or making judgments
- Participate in activities that focus on a classroom, school, or community issue or problem
- Suggest alternative solutions or courses of action to hypothetical or historic problems
- Evaluate the consequences for each alternative solution or course of action
- Prioritize the solutions based on established criteria
- Propose an action plan to address the issue of how to solve the problem

STANDARD I: HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES AND NEW YORK

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in the history of the United States and New York.

Key Idea 1.1:

The study of New York State and United States history requires an analysis of the development of American culture, its diversity and multicultural context, and the ways people are unified by many values, practices, and traditions.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Explore the meaning of American culture by identifying the key ideas, beliefs, and patterns of behaviors, and traditions that help define it and unite all Americans
- Interpret the ideas, values, and beliefs contained in the Declaration of Independence and the New York State Constitution and United States Constitution, Bill of Rights, and other important historical documents

Key Idea 1.3:

The study of the major social, political, economic, cultural, and religious developments in New York State and United States history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Complete well-documented and historically accurate case studies about individuals and groups who represent different ethnic, national, and religious groups, including Native American Indians, in New York State and the United States, at different times and in different locations
- Gather and organize information about the important achievements and contributions of individuals and groups living in New York State and the United States
- Describe how ordinary people and famous historic figures in the local community, state, and the United States have advanced the fundamental democratic values, beliefs and traditions expressed in the Declaration of Independence, the New York State and United States Constitutions, the Bill of Rights, and other important historic documents
- Classify major developments into categories such as social, political, economic, geographic, technological, scientific, cultural, or religious

Key Idea 1.2:

Important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions from New York State and United States history illustrate the connections and interactions of people and events across time and from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Describe the reasons for periodizing history in different ways
- Investigate key turning points in New York State and United States history and explain why these events or developments are significant
- Understand the relationship between the relative importance of United States domestic and foreign policies over time
- Analyze the role played by the United States in international politics, past and present

Key Idea 1.4

The skills of historical analysis include the ability to: explain the significance of historical evidence, weigh the importance, reliability, and validity of evidence, understand the concept of multiple causation, and understand the importance of changing and competing interpretations of different historical developments.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Consider the sources of historic documents, narratives, or artifacts and evaluate their reliability
- Understand how different experiences, beliefs, values, traditions, and motives cause individuals and groups to interpret historic events and issues from different perspectives
- Compare and contrast different interpretations of key events and issues in New York State and United States history and explain reasons for these different accounts
- Describe historic events through the eyes and experiences of those who were there

STANDARD 2: WORLD HISTORY

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of major ideas, eras, themes, developments, and turning points in world history and examine the broad sweep of history from a variety of perspectives.

Key Idea 2.1:

The study of world history requires an understanding of world cultures and civilizations, including an analysis of important ideas, social and cultural values, beliefs, and traditions. This study also examines the human condition and the connections and interactions of people across time and space and the ways different people view the same event or issue from a variety of perspectives.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Know the social and economic characteristics, such as customs, traditions, child-rearing practices, ways of making a living, education and socialization practices, gender roles, foods, and religious and spiritual beliefs that distinguish different cultures and civilizations
- Interpret and analyze documents and artifacts related to significant developments and events in world history

Key Idea 2.2:

Establishing timeframes, exploring different periodizations, examining themes across time and within cultures, and focusing on important turning points in world history help organize the study of world cultures and civilizations.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Develop timelines by placing important events and developments in world history in their correct chronological order
- Measure time periods by years, decades, centuries, and millennia
- Study about major turning points in world history by investigating the causes and other factors that brought about change and the results of these changes

Key Idea 2.3:

The study of the major social, political, cultural, and religious developments in world history involves learning about the important roles and contributions of individuals and groups.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Investigate the roles and contributions of individuals and groups in relation to key social, political, cultural, and religious practices throughout world history
- Interpret and analyze documents and artifacts related to significant developments and events in world history
- Classify historic information according to the type of activity or practices: social/cultural, political, economic, geographic, scientific, technological, and historic

Key Idea 2.4:

The skills of historical analysis include the ability to investigate differing and competing interpretations of the theories of history, hypothesize about why interpretations change over time, explain the importance of historical evidence, and understand the concepts of change and continuity over time.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Explain the literal meaning of a historical passage or primary source document, identifying who was involved, what happened, where it happened, what events led up to these developments, and what consequences or outcomes followed
- Analyze different interpretations of important events and themes in world history and explain the various frames of reference expressed by different historians
- View history through the eyes of those who witnessed key events and developments in world history by analyzing their literature, diary accounts, letters, artifacts, art, music, architectural drawings, and other documents
- Investigate important events and developments in world history by posing analytical questions, selecting relevant data, distinguishing fact from opinion, hypothesizing cause-and-effect relationships, testing these hypotheses, and forming conclusions

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the geography of the interdependent world in which we live—local, national, and global—including the distribution of people, places, and environments over the Earth’s surface.

Key Idea 3.1:

Geography can be divided into six essential elements, which can be used to analyze important historic, geographic, economic, and environmental questions and issues. These six elements include: the world in spatial terms, places and regions, physical settings (including natural resources), human systems, environment and society, and the use of geography.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Map information about people, places, and environments
- Understand the characteristics, functions, and applications of maps, globes, aerial and other photographs, satellite-produced images, and models
- Investigate why people and places are located where they are located and what patterns can be perceived in these locations
- Describe the relationships between people and environments and the connections between people and places

Key Idea 3.2:

Geography requires the development and application of the skills of asking and answering geographic questions; analyzing theories of geography; and acquiring, organizing, and analyzing geographic information.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Formulate geographic questions and define geographic issues and problems
- Use a number of research skills (e.g., computer databases, periodicals, census reports, maps, standard reference works, interviews, surveys) to locate and gather geographical information about issues and problems
- Present geographic information in a variety of formats, including maps, tables, graphs, charts, diagrams, and computer-generated models
- Interpret geographic information by synthesizing data and developing conclusions and generalizations about geographic issues and problems

STANDARD 4 – ECONOMICS

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of how the United States and other societies develop economic systems and associated institutions to allocate scarce resources, how major decision-making units function in the U.S. and other national economies, and how an economy solves the scarcity problem through market and non-market mechanisms.

Key Idea 4.1:

The study of economics requires an understanding of major economic concepts and systems, the principles of economic decision making, and the interdependence of economies and economic systems throughout the world.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Explain how societies and nations attempt to satisfy their basic needs and wants by utilizing scarce capital, natural, and human resources
- Define basic economic concepts such as scarcity, supply and demand, markets, opportunity cost, resources, productivity, economic growth, and systems
- Understand how scarcity requires people and nations to make choices which involve costs and future considerations
- Understand how people in the United States and throughout the world are both producers and consumers of goods and services
- Investigate how people in the United States and throughout the world answer the three fundamental economic questions and solve basic economic problems
- Describe how traditional, command, market, and mixed economies answer the three fundamental economic questions
- Explain how nations throughout the world have joined with one another to promote economic development and growth

Key Idea 4.2:

Economics requires the development and application of the skills needed to make informed and well-reasoned economic decisions in daily and national life.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Identify and collect economic information from standard reference works, newspapers, periodicals, computer databases, textbooks, and other primary and secondary sources
- Organize and classify economic information by distinguishing relevant from irrelevant information, placing ideas in chronological order, and selecting appropriate labels for data
- Evaluate economic data by differentiating fact from opinion and identifying frames of reference
- Develop conclusions about economic issues and problems by creating broad statements which summarize findings and solutions
- Present economic information by using media and other appropriate visuals such as tables, charts, and graphs to communicate ideas and conclusions

STANDARD 5 – CIVICS, CITIZENSHIP, AND GOVERNMENT

Students will use a variety of intellectual skills to demonstrate their understanding of the necessity for establishing governments, the governmental system of the U.S. and other nations, the U.S. Constitution, the basic civic values of American constitutional democracy, and the roles, rights, and responsibilities of citizenship, including avenues of participation.

Key Idea 5.1:

The study of civics, citizenship, and government involves learning about political systems, the purposes of government and civic life, and the differing assumptions held by people across time and place regarding power, authority, governance, and law.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Analyze how the values of a nation affect the guarantee of human rights and make provisions for human needs
- Consider the nature and evolution of constitutional democracies
- Explore the rights of citizens in their parts of the hemisphere and determine how they are similar to and different from the rights of American citizens
- Analyze the sources of a nation's values as embodied in its constitution, statutes, and important court cases

Key Idea 5.2:

The state and federal governments established by the Constitutions of the United States and the State of New York embody basic civic values (such as justice, honesty, self-discipline, due process, equality, majority rule with respect for minority rights, and respect for self, others, and property), principles, and practices and establish a system of shared and limited government.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Understand how civic values reflected in United States and New York State Constitutions have been implemented through laws and practices
- Understand that the New York State Constitution, along with a number of other documents, served as a model for the development of the United States Constitution
- Compare and contrast the development and evolution of the constitutions of the United States and New York State
- Define federalism and describe the powers granted the national and state governments by the United States Constitution
- Value the principles, ideals, and core values of the American democratic system based upon the promises of human dignity, liberty, justice, and equality
- Understand how the United States and New York State Constitutions support majority rule but also protect the rights of the minority

Key Idea 5.3:

Central to civics and citizenship is an understanding of the roles of the citizen within American constitutional democracy and the scope of a citizen's rights and responsibilities.

Student Performance Indicators:

- Explain what citizenship means in a democratic society, how citizenship is defined in the Constitution and other laws of the land, and how the definition of citizenship changed in the United States and New York State over time
- Understand that the American legal and political systems guarantee and protect the rights of citizens and assume that citizens will hold and exercise certain civic values and fulfill certain civic responsibilities
- Discuss the role of an informed citizen in today's changing world
- Explain how Americans are citizens of their state and of the United States

Key Idea 5.4

The study of civics and citizenship requires the ability to probe ideas and assumptions, ask and answer analytical questions, take a skeptical attitude toward questionable arguments, evaluate evidence, formulate rational conclusions, and develop and refine participatory skills

Student Performance Indicators:

- Respect the rights of others in discussions and classroom debates regardless of whether or not one agrees with their viewpoint
- Explain the role that civility plays in promoting effective citizenship in preserving democracy
- Participate in negotiation and compromise to resolve classroom, school, and community disagreements and problems

The College, Career, and Civic Life (C3) Framework

This national framework is the result of collaboration among fifteen professional organizations committed to the advancement of social studies education. It challenges us to work to prepare students for college, careers and civic engagement. The 3 C's are articulated so that knowledgeable, thinking, and active citizens are the end goal of high quality social studies teaching and learning.

The C3 Framework is also centered on an Inquiry Arc — a set of interlocking and mutually supportive ideas that frame the ways students learn social studies. By focusing on inquiry, the framework emphasizes the disciplinary concepts and practices that support students as they develop the capacity to know, analyze, explain, and argue about interdisciplinary challenges in our social world.¹

The concepts expressed in the C3 Framework illustrate the disciplinary ideas, such as political structures, economic decision making, spatial patterns, and chronological sequencing that help organize curriculum and content.

The Framework also provides grade level benchmarks that describe what students in grades 2, 5, 8 and 12 should be able to do in each of the dimensions by the end of each grade.

While the NYSED Frameworks seek to integrate much of what is included in the C3 Framework, it is an important document worthy of attention and can be found here: <http://www.socialstudies.org/system/files/c3/C3-Framework-for-Social-Studies.pdf>

NYSED State Mandated Instruction in Social Studies

New York State Education Law: Article 17, Section 801-802

Acknowledgments

801. Courses of instruction in patriotism and citizenship and in certain historic documents.

Summary: The Regents shall prescribe:

1. courses of instruction in patriotism, citizenship, and human rights issues (especially the study of the inhumanity of genocide, slavery, the Holocaust, and the Irish Famine) to be maintained and followed in all the schools of New York State. All students over age eight shall receive this instruction.
2. courses of instruction in the history, meaning, significance and effects of the Constitution of the United States, the amendments, the Declaration of Independence, the New York State Constitution and its amendments, to be maintained and followed in all of the schools of the state. All students in eighth grade and higher shall receive this instruction.
3. a course of studies in the public schools, during a week designated by the Regents, to instill the purpose, meaning and importance of the Bill of Rights articles in the federal and state constitutions, in addition to the prescribed courses of study in the schools.
4. curriculum materials to aid in the instruction in understanding and acceptance of children with disabilities. All students in grades Kindergarten through six shall receive this instruction.

801-a. Instruction in civility, citizenship and character education.

Summary: The Regents shall ensure that the instruction in grades Kindergarten through twelve includes a component on civility, citizenship and character education.

802. Instruction relating to the flag; holidays.

Summary: The commissioner shall:

1. prepare a program providing a salute to the flag and daily pledge of allegiance to the flag, and instruction in respect for the flag, for the use of the public schools of the state of New York.
2. make provision for the observance of Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, Memorial Day and Flag Day in the public schools.

801-a Instruction relating to general elections.

Summary: Every school and teacher or instructor shall utilize a sample of facsimile ballot, provided by the appropriate board of elections, when providing instruction in the electoral process relating to an ongoing general election.
